AAA Boards & Advisory Councils

- “Board service is a form of philanthropy. It is the voluntary giving of your time and talents (and ‘treasure’ of course!) to an organization whose mission you endorse and whose values you share.” ---Kay Sprinkle Grace
- AAAs do not walk alone, nor do their boards or advisory councils. All have a role to play, in collaboration with each other. Whether your interests lean to governance, policy, strategic planning, or fundraising, there is a home for everyone to serve.
- It is a big job, and an awesome responsibility, but the rewards of serving are huge.

What is the difference?

- Under the Older Americans Act (OAA), AAAs are directed to establish an Advisory Council. The Advisory Council is charged with furthering the agency's mission of developing and coordinating community-based systems of services for all older persons in the planning and service area. However, as the name suggests, the Council advises—it does not govern.

Roles, Responsibilities and Rewards

- 1. Corporate Board: Governance (legal and fiduciary) – Ensuring high quality oversight, ethical and responsible decision-making, accountability and transparency
- Note: While the governance responsibility falls exclusively on boards, the following roles apply to advisory councils as well.

Roles, Responsibilities and Rewards
